Our Buildings . . .

This year, our buildings have been enlarged to accommodate the increasing size of our school. Set on the side of Atwood's Hill, our campus covers twenty-five acres. The school building, including the just completed addition, is the largest structure in Georgetown.

In the new addition, "livability" is an important feature: attractive colors and carpeting make this a comfortable building to work in.

The fact that our town was able to erect, maintain, and now expand its own buildings, while surrounding towns entered into regional arrangements, is a tribute to its independence and its pride.

Our School . . .

While our buildings are inanimate, Georgetown High School has a soul. Our school is the people inside the buildings; the students, the teachers, the workers.

Each of us in our school voluntarily, or without knowing, necessarily adds strength to this soul. Georgetown High School molds our core in return.

Each of us shows the emotions and moods of our school. We are a reflection of its soul.

Dedication

The yearbook dedication is the highest honor the senior class can bestow. This year we honor Mr. Stephen Feins, our Problems of Democracy teacher. His course treats the controversial topics of now. He treats us as individuals. His efforts for the "senior study," his efforts for the New York trip, and his sincere desire to stimulate our thought, has earned him the praise of the class of '69.

I Am the Principal . . .

"In loco parentis." This is my school, where I am responsible for the well-being and education of hundreds of students.

I learn from them; they learn from me. The thought that I am helping to mold the attitudes of these students is the self-satisfying reward for the long extra hours, I spend in my corner office.

The Commissioner of Education has called the high school principalship, "the toughest job of all." With teachers and students constantly running in and out of my office all day, I heartily agree.

I Am the Teacher . . .

I will work hour after hour, strain day after day, standing, pointing, pouting, and shouting...to put one idea across...just one...

To throw out facts is easy; to teach facts is harder, and requires long preparation, and good exposition. But to convey the concepts which make facts fall into place, is brutal work.

And to succeed makes it worth the trouble of teacher's pets and parent conferences and problems of student geniuses ... and semi-geniuses—and deadwood ... and all the daily hassles that give me headaches.

Seniors

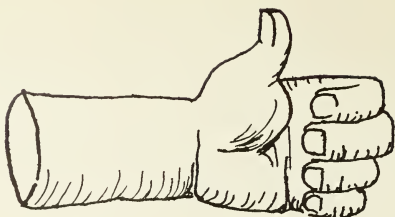

I Am a Senior . . .

To be a senior is to be under pressure. For some seniors there is the pressure of post-high school admissions; for others, competition for work lies ahead. For all of us, there is the very real pressure of leading our school.

We need to set an example simply because we are the oldest. It seems ironic that we don't realize our potential leadership and responsibility in our school, until we are about to leave it.

I see things in a different light; perhaps from age, perhaps from involvement, perhaps from the sadness of "almost gone."

Of course its not all that serious; with plays, and dances, and banquets, and parties, "senioritis" sets in about Christmas time, and you know what happens then. . .

Fall

F all is making the scene with new clothes, new books, a fresh start. Coming back to school is meeting the new students, seeing everybody again, and how much they've changed over the summer. Fall is losing your tan. Fall is leaving your summer love...and picking up a new one.

Fall weather is scarf and sweater in the morning and sun and swelter by noontime. Fall is waiting for the new addition to open. Fall is football.

FOOTBALL

I Am the Football Player . . .

Platitudes about sportsmanship aside, football is violence. The quotation, "Ah consider mah forearm to be a deadly weapon; ah like to inflict pain upon mah opponents" is repeated in our locker room as much in admiration of its originator as in jest. Hitting is the name of the game.

Football is hard work, from the first humid double session practice to the last frigid wind sprint. There is anguish too; the agony of "missed by that much" that comes from losing five games by a touchdown apiece.

But don't mistake me. Football is as much fun as it is work. There's a sense of accomplishment you get that makes the physical punishment and emotional strain worthwhile, a unique pride in playing good football against teams from schools three times as large as ours. I can't think of another thing in high school that quite compares to it.

It's a lonely sport . . . I run for the team, not with a team. Cross country hurts my feet, my legs . . . my insides; especially the last hundred yards . . . sprinting those is pure agony. I practice two hours a day for a meet that lasts ten minutes. There are a few spectators, and not much school glory. Yet Coach Cairns is always there . . . always there . . .

I Play Field Hockey . . .

Field hockey is kind of a mixed bag; it beats dieting, but it does a job on my nails. Team spirit is laughing "kill" during warm ups, and eating oranges at the half. For some girls it's hard to "fight" out on the field in front of spectators, and act like a lady the next day. But for others, field hockey is a chance to prove oneself to oneself, and to others.

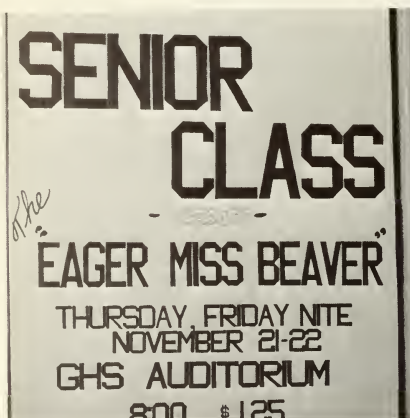

I Am the Actor . . .

"The Eager Miss Beaver" to most people, was a three act farce based on the tribulations of the Upshaw family, their servants, and neighbors, as their home is disrupted by cousin Bernice Beaver, and haunted by a trio of phony ghosts.

But to me, the actor, the senior thespian is seven long weeks of practice, last night memorization, butterflies . . . and "Mama" Lacey.

I Play Basketball . . .

Basketball is looking, thinking, lots of aggressiveness...and a little running and jumping, too. Practice is a big part of basketball. Practice is working on my left-hand shot...getting "hacked" in the one-on-one drills...and joking in the locker room afterwards.

It's good to be on a winning team. There's no feeling like when the Georgetown spectators drowned out the Pentucket cheerleaders with a chant of "we're number one!!". The rafters shook. They shook again, when Don Pingree hit a shot with five seconds left, to beat Rockport by one point.

All season long we talked about this being the year that Georgetown would make it to the Tech Tourney... And we did.

Spring

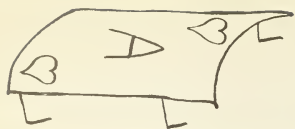

Spring is the third school season and is the most varied. Early spring is like the poem we read in the seventh grade: "in justspring/the word is mudluscious—and puddlewonderful." It is hard to stay with the books: spring fever, beaching weather, daylight savings time, long afternoons. Spring is the first time you go barefoot; spring is being the first with a good tan.

Spring is the first time you cut your foot going barefoot; spring is having to mow the lawn again.

Spring is the Junior Prom; all night parties; "see ya at the beach."

Spring fades away into summer: hot assemblies, muggy days in dull classes with the heater finally putting out the heat we should have had five months ago.

One last hot evening in the gym: graduation; "See you at the beach!"

I Play

Baseball . . .

...An important part of the school is the physical facilities. Due to the installation of the septic system of the Perley School, we had no field. Although we were able to obtain Haverhill Stadium, one of the finest fields in the area for our home games, we couldn't practice on a real field. Practice was held before the game, ten minutes of infield practice, fifteen minutes of batting practice.

Even though we came in second place, the team was disappointed for we were picked to win the league championship. Our hitting was less than par but that can be attributed to lack of facilities. It's a very frustrating feeling to know you have the best talent in the league and not being able to display it at its fullest. Coach Woodman also became very frustrated and depressed at times but because of his patience, he was able to coach us to a respectable 10-4 record.

I Run Track . . .

Track is painful, in a sense different from the other sports, because, rather than fighting a man, you are racing a clock, jumping for a mark, throwing for a stake; the physical struggle is within yourself.

In one sense, track is not unlike football. Whereas football is primarily violent, track is the individual consummation of military skills. The javelin has evolved from the spear; the shot-put evolved from using cannon shot. But track is a more individual sport; close order drill has no relationship to an every-man-for-himself race.
